SAMANTHA

It's been said that music soothes the savage beast, but beauty Samantha Stewart would rather tell us which songs never fail to bring out the animal in her.

“The song
“Splish Splash”
gets me going.
As long as I have
a willing partner,
I can think of a lot
of naughty
water sports.”

PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM

If you ask 20-year-old Samantha Stewart, our January Pet of the Month, what things mean the most to her, she'll tell you there are but two: "Men and music." A music major at an Illinois college, Samantha is also the lead guitarist in a local but very popular all-female band. "After all my years of going to concerts and following rock bands around," she tells us, "I've concluded that it's much better to be in the group than be the groupie. It's such a rush to play to a crowd and then find a guy waiting who wants to meet me after the show." Samantha adds, "And some very sexy guys come hear us play. When I find someone who's in tune with my needs, it makes for a great evening."

"I pick a song that will turn a guy on," our 36-23-34 Pet says. "Then I set the mood for a little hand jive."

"When it's time for passionate lovmaking," Samantha
continues, "I love soft classical music that slowly builds
to a climax."

"I think you can tell a lot about a person by the music they listen to. I have a very extensive CD collection—everything from Burt Bacharach to the Beastie Boys. That tells you I'm someone who's old-fashioned in some ways, but also willing to try something new and wild. Of course there's one song that gets me hot every time," Samantha teases, "and if you can name that tune, I can guarantee some good vibrations all night long."

NIKIE

“I know some women say
working for Penthouse is exploitation, but it's those women who are insecure in their sexuality.”

Pet of the Year

January is time to welcome a new year, but more important, it's time for us to crown our new Pet of the Year. Twenty-eight-year-old Nikie St. Gilles captivated readers as our March 1997 Pet of the Month, but since she was living in her native Belgium at the time she was unaware of her impact. "But," Nikie says, "when I came back to the United States I was amazed by the number of people who recognized me and had copies of the magazine for me to autograph. I was treated like a princess."

Penthouse Publisher Bob Guccione and Nikie, receiving her 14-karat-gold, ruby- and diamond-encrusted Pet of the Year Key, designed exclusively for Penthouse by Michael Hayden, Inc.

As always, voting for all the Pet of the Year candidates was fierce, but ballots for 37-23-35 Nikie inundated our Website, our

Play-Off
phone line,
and our
mailroom.
And this year,
for the first
time, our Queen will be rewarded with a $100,000
cash prize.

"Working with Penthouse
is wonderful," Nikie says. "I know some women
say it's
exploitation,
but it's
those women

"What I especially enjoy is working on Penthouse videos," Nikie tells us. "I recently did a shoot in the Bahamas with 11 other

who are insecure
in their sexuality. I'm an adult, and
I'm smart; I
certainly would know if I were being exploited."

Pets. The setting was beautiful, the weather was great, and we had so much fun that it was like a vacation."

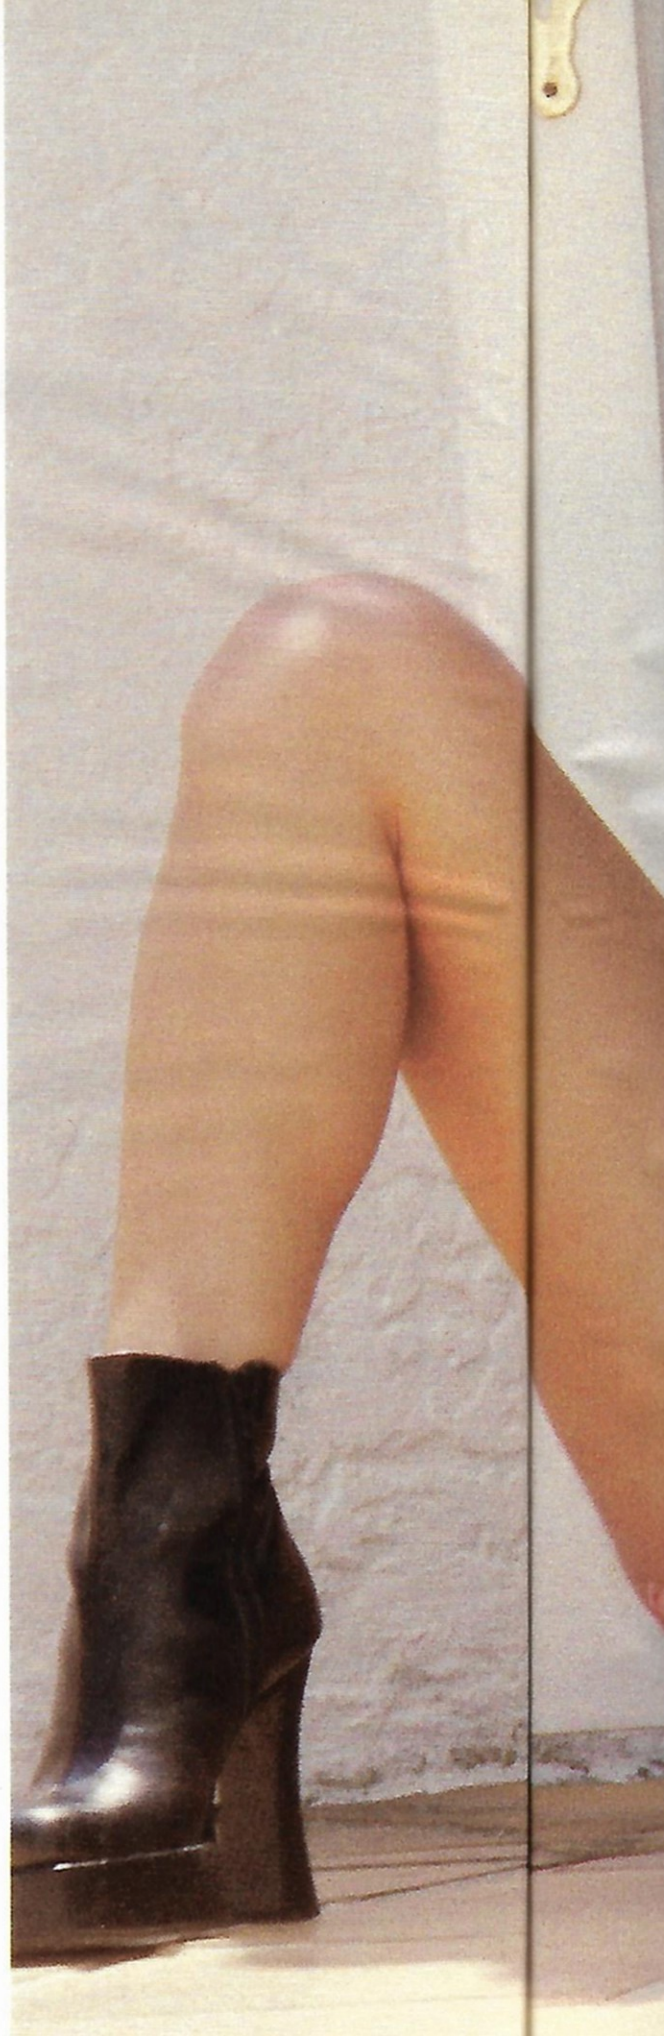

Several months ago Nikie moved to New York. "I love Manhattan," she says. "It's a great place for me because I'm very spontaneous

and it's a 24-hour city.
When I
go back to Brussels I
have to remember
that the stores close
early."

"Back in Belgium I studied interior design," Nikie says, "and I plan to finish my studies in the future, but right now I'm not making any long-term plans. I know being Pet of the Year will mean traveling a lot, and I'm looking forward to representing such a great magazine and meeting Penthouse readers." Trust us, Nikie, Penthouse readers are looking forward to that too.

ANDI SUE & KRISSTEN

PHOTOGRAPHS BY EARL MILLER

Since their boyfriends were out of town, Krissten and Andi Sue decided on a girls' night in. They settled back to watch a few romantic videos, which put them in a sexy mood. Krissten detected a glint she'd long sought in Andi Sue's eye.

Krissten slipped Andi Sue's dress down and took an erect nipple between her lips. Andi Sue sighed, then moaned sharply as she shivered with sensual delight. "I've wanted this for so long," Krissten murmured.

They both were tingling
with desire.
Stripping
down to their birthday
suits, they took their fun
into a bubble bath.

Andi Sue and Krissten took turns lifting
themselves
above the bubbles, offering sparkling
pink pussies
to questing
tongues.

The mounting curiosity they had each
felt about
making love
to another
woman culminated in a very successful experiment.
